Phoenix several days ago, he has made trips over the valley and has investigated thoroughly the conditions of the soil here and the climate. The result of these investigations will be the recommendation of a tea plantation in the Salt River valley.

The planting of tea in San Diego will be the first experiment tried by Sir Thomas Lipton in the United States. His latest plantations are in Ceylon, but for some time he has been contemplating experiments in this country and upon recommendation of his representative in the United States he has decided to try southern California first. The Salt River valley, his representative here believes, will eventually be the home of the Lipton tea in America.

"The mild winter here," he said, "will permit the growing of tea the year round, and this is necessary. There are three crops, the first naturally being the best. This is called the mild tea, and the one that has the greatest sale all over the world. The second crop is somewhat stronger in flavor and the third is very strong."

"In the summer there would be absolutely no difficulty to overcome in the growing of the tea plants, but in the winter we may experience some difficulty, for instance if there are hard rains. But these difficulties can be overcome and, on the whole, this climate is as near perfect for the tea industry as it is possible to find in the United States. I believe that in time Arizona will be a tea growing state, and that tea culture will become one of its principal industries."

"You have the climate, the soil and the location and I believe that within a year's time an experimental plantation will be started here by Sir Thomas Lipton." We will soon experiment in tea growing in San Diego. We have purchased two acres of land and when the steamer Marnolia arrives in San Francisco on July 24, it will bring from Ceylon, where Sir Thomas has several of his largest tea plantations, tea plants already in leaf. These will be set out in San Diego and a thorough test will be made of the soil and climate there. We believe that we will experience no trouble whatever, as the climate and soil are both in our favor.

"On the same journey with the plants will come two Chinamen: one is the superintendent of one of Sir Thomas' plantations and the other an assistant. They will take charge of the experiment and will be ready to show the people of San Diego how the tea is planted, and the different varieties that can be grown. As soon as we have the experimental plantation under way, we will build a tea garden on the exposition grounds, and here tea will be served by the Chinamen."

Clancy has been in the employ of Sir Thomas Lipton since the Chicagoan's tour in 1903 and is familiar with every phase of the tea industry. He believes that the Salt River valley is the logical place for a tea plantation and will recommend it to his employer. There will be only one drawback to the growing of tea here, he says, and that is, one that can be easily offset. Tea plants need moisture, but lacking that in this climate, artificial moisture can be used, and it will be impossible, he says, for one to tell the difference in tea grown in moist heat or that grown in dry heat. SALT RIVER VALLEY

INVESTIGATED AS TO THE GROWING OF TEA

PHOENIX, July 18.—T. Lipton Clancy, representing Sir Thomas Lipton, the famous tea brewer and merchant of England, is in Phoenix for the expressed purpose of investigating conditions here relative to the growing of tea here in the Salt River valley.

"There is everything in favor of tea growing in this valley," he said this morning. "You have the climate, the soil and the location and I believe that within a year's time an experimental plantation will be started here by Sir Thomas Lipton." TO SAVE EYES

Is the Object of This Free Prescription—Try it if Your Eyes Give You Trouble.

Thousands of people suffer from eye troubles because they do not know what to do. They know some good home remedy for every other minor ailment, but none for their eye troubles. They neglect their eyes, because of the trouble it is not sufficient to drive them to an eye specialist, who would, anyway, charge them a heavy fee. As a last resort they go to an oculist or to the five and ten-cent store and oftentimes get glasses that they do not need, or which, after being used two or three months, do their eyes more injury than good. Here is a simple prescription that every one should use:

5 grains Optina (1 tablet). 2 ounces water.

Use three or four times a day to bathe the eyes. This prescription and the simple Optina system keeps the eyes clean, sharpens the vision and quickly overcomes inflammation and irritation; weak, watery, overworked, tired eyes and other similar troubles are greatly benefited and oftentimes cured by its use. Many reports show that wearers of glasses have discarded them after a few weeks' use. It is good for the eyes and contains no ingredient which would injure the most sensitive eyes of an infant or the aged. The Bisbee Drug Co. or any
